

"There was a time, not so very many years ago, when we all looked upon The North American Review as the heaviest reading that came to an exchange table—not the least interesting, but the heaviest. It is almost thirty years since The North American renewed its youth. From that day to this, the trend of The North American Review has been in one direction—the direction of timely topics discussed with an ability that gives them a peculiar claim upon our attention. It was in the regular line of evolution. When Mark Twain began his delightful reminiscences under the general title, 'A Chapter from Mark Twain's Autobiography,' we all felt that his papers by themselves were worth the price of the magazine. When George Harvey added his pungent editorial articles to Mark Twain's delicious humor, we were not only satisfied, but pleased. But when Colonel Harvey calls to his assistance the best writers in England and America, and lays before his readers the choicest products of their pens, we admit that we are enthusiastic.

"It is not likely that The North American Review for 1908 will publish any poem that will compare favorably with 'Thanatopsis'; for the sufficient reason that our present-day poets are incapable of producing such verses. But if there be a budding genius in all the field of American literature, we would warmly commend him to The North American Review as the place where he is likely to find recognition and far better pay than The Review awarded to William Cullen Bryant in 1816."—Utica Observer.

"This oldest and always the leading review on this side of the water has been a very active and creditable part of our current literature of the solid kind. Upon George Harvey's induction into the editorial chair, however, the old favorite took on new life, and there has been no mistake about its leadership in the political, scientific and social thought of the country. It is a publication which no thoughtful person, in public or private life, can afford to ignore. The old familiar terra cotta cover has given place to a sober and dignified grey, to which we shall soon become accustomed."—Burlington News.

The North American Review

Edited by George Harvey

FOR 1908

Greater Quantity—Better Quality—Lower Price

A Pleasing Innovation—The First Great Review to be Illustrated With Artistic Reproductions of Portraits Worth Seeing

The Great Minds of America

Goldwin Smith is the subject of the first of these papers—an able study of this distinguished man and important figure in twentieth-century thought. A full-page frontispiece portrait accompanies the text. The second will be President Eliot, of Harvard University.

Mark Twain's Autobiography

continues to delight the many readers who have eagerly followed the earlier chapters of this wonderful life-story. The veteran humorist's reminiscences form the most unique and valuable biographical writing of the age. The delightfully discursive and episodic style permits of taking up the Autobiography at any point without reference to preceding chapters.

Special Articles on Finance

will be of frequent and timely appearance. They will be contributed by those best qualified to speak authoritatively on financial problems and conditions, and will be of interest and value not only to large investors, but to every man who seeks the intelligent handling of small savings.

Real Literature in the Making will receive the Review's constant attention in critical essays by eminent men of letters and in reviews of all important new books as they appear. Collectively, these articles will form a considerable body of admirable criticism, adequate, informing and entertaining, on the literary output of the day.

The Editor's Diary---World Politics

and other regular features of the Review will be maintained as heretofore, rounding out a magazine touching the world's progress at all important points, and maintaining an attitude of clear, candid and impartial discussion of all great questions.

Contents of the North American Review OCTOBER ISSUE

Frontispiece—Portrait of Dr. L. L. Zamsuhof.

A Chapter from My Autobiography, XXIII..... MARK TWAIN

Some Conclusions of a Free Thinker, by..... DANIEL H. CHAMBERLAIN and

Evolution, Immortality and the Christian Religion—A Reply—by..... GOLDWIN SMITH

SPECIAL ARTICLES—

The Failure of Americans as Athletes..... CHARLES E. WOODRUFF.
On Reading the Plays of Henry Arthur Jones..... W. D. HOWELLS

The Advancement of Teaching..... PROFESSOR JOSEPH JASTROW

Is Germany's Navy a Menace?..... J. L. BASHFORD

Some Guesses at Japan..... W. T. ELLIS

The Child Labor Problem..... JULIA MAGRUDER

The New Morality..... ELIZABETH BISLAND

The Crumbling Empire of the Moors..... STEPHEN BONSAL

Motherhood: A Poem..... AGNES LEE

Impressions of the Esperanto Congress..... MARQUIS DE BEAUFONT

The Progress of Esperanto..... HENRY JAMES FORMAN

NEW BOOKS REVIEWED:

The Development of Shakespeare as a Dramatist..... BRANDER MATTHEWS

Shaw's New Volume of Plays..... LAWRENCE GILMAN

Dreiser's "Sister Carrie"..... JOSEPH H. COATES

North
American Review,
Franklin Square,
New York:

Please send me the Review
for the year 1908, including the October, November and December numbers of 1907, for which I enclose four dollars.

Name _____

Address _____

The Leading Review of the World

Price, 35 Cents a Copy, - - - - - $4 a Year

To Every Subscriber Sending Four Dollars for the Review for 1908, the October, November and December, 1907, numbers Will be Sent FREE OF CHARGE. Use the Form Found on the Attached Coupon.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.